Research Project Leader, University of Arkansas SIT study & CASE study. (2019-present). Currently serving as principle investigator for an interdisciplinary collaborative research project at the University of Arkansas. The Student in Transition (SIT) study is a quantitative investigation. The Campus Advisors School Experiences (CASE) study is a qualitative investigation. Tasks to date have included:

- Securing approval through the Institutional Review Board for both studies.
- Building Qualtrics surveys for use in both studies & creating qualitative scripts for participant interviews.
- Recording qualitative interviews and transferring recording to secure servers for analysis.
- Assigning tasks to faculty & graduate students related to participant recruitment.
- Aiding in variable & measure selection for inclusion in future research & statistical analysis.
- Coordinating team meetings & other minor logistics related to research project development.

Co-Director for the FRIENDS of the Tallgrass, Interdisciplinary Midwest Research Consortium. (2017-present).

Currently serving as leadership responsible for collaborating with faculty from multiple universities with regards to several research projects exploring diverse populations. Responsibilities include:

- Selection & statistical investigation of publicly available datasets.
- Collaboration on dissemination efforts related to results found from statistical analysis of secondary data.
- Aiding other faculty in student advising and mentorship associated with research design & dissemination.
- Managing logistics associated with construction of new investigations using primary & secondary data.
- Distributing research results & providing interpretations & implications to academic & practitioner audiences.
- Publishing statistical results related to the research project in peer-reviewed journals.

Graduate Research Assistant, Florida State University. (2014-2017). Served as a team member on a research project exploring well-being among 460 college students. Tasks included:

- Creating & disseminating study invitation flyers & helping build Qualtrics surveys.
- Following up with participants at a second time point to complete longitudinal surveys.
- Transferring electronically collected data to SPSS for statistical analysis.
- Running SPSS & interpreting findings for use in written & oral presentations regarding findings.
- Distributing research results & providing interpretations & implications to academic & practitioner audiences.
- Publishing statistical results related to the research project in peer-reviewed journals.

Graduate Research Assistant, University of Arkansas. (2013-2014). Served as principle investigator of a research project exploring well-being among long-term care older adults. Tasks included:

- Interviewing 110 older adults using paper & pencil techniques.
- Transcribing participant paper & pencil surveys to Microsoft Excel.
- Converting Excel datasheets to SAS for conducting statistical research.
- Running SAS & interpreting results for use in written & oral presentation.
- Disseminating research results, interpretations, & implications of findings to academic & non-academic audiences.
- Publishing statistical results related to the research project in a peer-reviewed journal.
